Golf has been often diagnosed as a mailgnant, contagious disease. And there have been many prescriptions from the laity for its cure. There is no record of any of them having worked, but a new one has been offered to a Topeka golfer, which is here passed on for the beenfit of the sufferera from the malady who would fain be normal again.

here passed on for the beenfit of the sufferera from the malady who would fain be normal again.

One of the most severe cases of golfitis in Topeka lives in a second floor apartment, with a front porch well above the street level. On the first floor his landbrd and landady live, and they—particularly the latter—take a deep interest in the golfer's family affairs.

On a certain afternoon not lons since, said golfer purchased a new club which was guaranteed to drive 'ma at least two miles, and never to produce a lie in the rough. Circumstances—which were of the sternes—forbade that he take the club to the links that evening for a tryout, and he had a few moments to spare when he arrived at the flat. So he took the precious darling weapon out on the acound story porch, and commenced to swing it at an imaginary golf ball. There was a spring and a verve to the club such as he had never experienced in another, and for pure loy he commenced to drive hypothetical balls down as imaginary fairway, never less than 275 yards at a shot. He swung again and again.

And the more he swungs, the more ardent was his delight.

The hiss and whine of the club as it keened thru the air was like the noise of a whip. He put more and more force into the swings. He played eighteen holes of imaginary fairway, never less than 275 yards at a shot. He swung again and again.

And the more he swungs, the more andent was his delight.

The hiss and whine of the club as it keened thru the air was like the noise of a whip. He put more and more force into the swings. He played eighteen holes of imaginary golf on that front porch in five minutes. Time and actuality faded away. He didn't near the traffic which clattered alons the street, nor the uneasy movements on the porch or the street. He didn't near the traffic which clattered alons the street, nor the uneasy movements on the porch or the street. He didn't near the traffic which clattered alons the street house. Consecution of the club was making in the coone.

"Mister Blank: Mister Blank!" his enticing greens, and the song the club was making in the coone.

"Mister Blank! Mister Blank!!" his landlady called from below, and brought him back to prosaic reality.

"Have you ever tried taking a blg drink of cold water for 'em? It'll cure 'em sure?"

"Cure what?" he demanded. "Cure nothing! I've tried for six years to cure myself of this. Whatdaymean, cure 'em?"

"Why, cure that awful spell of hiccoughs, of course,' the answer floated up from below.

Why not a vacation for Mother?

Most everyone else is enjoying a vacation at this season—and if you'll send us the family washing we will give Mother a vacation also. We'll give here a day's vacation every week.

Everything is laundered by us as you would launder it personally—in rainsoft water with suds of pure, neutral soap. And we iron and finish everything in the same "homey" way.

Your things last longer when washed our way because we use just the same gentle methods and materials you use in your own home.

You'll like this service, also, for its economy—it saves for you in time, labor and
